

MRS. PANKHURST IS ALLOWED TO ENTER

IMMIGRATION BOARD'S ORDER REVERSED FOLLOWING PRESIDENT'S ACTION IN CASE.

PLEDGES TO OBEY LAW

Attorney O'Neil Promises That Militant Leader Will Not Preach Militancy During American Lecture Tour.

Washington, Oct. 20.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant British suffragette, is free to enter the United States.

The Ellis Island immigration board's order of deportation was reversed today after President Wilson had conferred on the case with Secretary Wilson and the hearing had been concluded before Immigration Commissioner Caminetti.

Secretary Wilson announced on the occasion of his conference with President Wilson that Mrs. Pankhurst would be admitted upon her own recognizance with the understanding that she depart at the end of her lecture engagements. No bond was exacted.

No Militant Speeches.

Attorney O'Neil, at the hearing today, referred to Mrs. Pankhurst's pledge that she would conduct herself in a lawful manner while in this country.

BRIEF HISTORY OF MRS. PANKHURST'S SPEC TACULAR CAREER.

Here is the story of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst's life, tersely told.

Born in Manchester, England. Educated in France, where teachings of Henri Rochefort, noted French journalist, undoubtedly influenced her later life.

Married Dr. Pankhurst, a physician. He died in 1899, leaving her with three children to support.

One of the founders of Women's Political Union in 1903. This marked her entrance into her spectacular life, as she immediately began her speeches for the ballot.

Arrested in February, 1908, for heading raid on House of Commons, sentenced to six months and served entire sentence. Arrested again in October, same year, for inciting riot.

Visited United States in 1909 and 1911 and spoke in eastern cities.

Began her famous "window smashing" campaign in 1912; arrested and sentenced to two months in prison, nine months before being added to her conspiracy. She "hunger struck" and was released after three weeks. Arrested in February, this year, in connection with explosion at home under London. George's residence and sentenced to three years' penal servitude. Released after three weeks "hunger strike."

Arrested again under "cat and mouse" act and added "water strike" to her defenses and again was released.

Arrived in New York October 18 and detained by Board of Immigration, which accuses her of "moral turpitude."

STRIKING UTTERANCES

"I would not be a man for all the wealth in the world."

"If encouraging the breaking of windows  shows moral turpitude, then your (Americans') ancestors who threw the tea overboard in Boston harbor were guilty of moral turpitude."

"I came here with no advice to give. I came as Parnell, Davitt and Redmond came—for political support."

"Our women do not need militancy. I do not advise it here."

country. "She has made that pledge to the American people and she will keep it," declared the lawyer with eloquence. "In every home, in every factory in this land today women's heads are bowed in mute appeal to this department for the liberty of this distinguished woman."

Immigration Commissioner Caminetti asked if Mrs. Pankhurst intended to preach militancy in this country.

"Emphatically no," declared Mr. O'Neil. "We have her word on that point and we state this as strongly as possible."

Mr. Caminetti said that he would not take into consideration the suffragist lecture contract and would take into consideration the agreement regarding the case of Marie Lloyd, the English music hall singer. Copies of clippings from London newspapers on the activities of Mrs. Pankhurst were excluded from the record.

Bidding Her Time.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, the militant English suffragette held at Ellis Island pending word from Washington on her deportation, ate her breakfast this morning and bided her time awaiting word as to whether she would be able to make her lecture trip in this country.

On an interview with an official of the steamship La Provence, on which Mrs. Pankhurst will be deported, he is quoted as saying today. "If Mrs. Pankhurst does not wish to eat the food prepared for her and other passengers may do as she pleases, if the English lady prefers to die, it is her own affair."

Question of Policy.

The decision by President Wilson and Secretary Wilson, after consultation with Commissioner General Caminetti who issued a formal order of release.

President Wilson thought that the law had a flexible interpretation so that it was largely a question of not releasing Mrs. Pankhurst. Commissioner Caminetti was instructed in accordance with the view of President Wilson. Mr. Caminetti filed a brief memorandum recommending Mrs. Pankhurst's admission on her own recognizance and announced that he would later file his reasons in writing.

Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst left Ellis Island and came to New York shortly

WELCOME BADGERS HOME FROM PURDUE

"Should Have Won Game But We Played Our Best," Says Captain Tandberg at Sunday Mass Meeting.

WELCOME BADGERS HOME FROM PURDUE

"Should Have Won Game But We Played Our Best," Says Captain Tandberg at Sunday Mass Meeting.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—With an outburst of enthusiasm as hearty as that shown on the team's departure Friday night, Badger football rosters welcomed home the men who played Purdue desperately to a tie score, at one o'clock Sunday afternoon. The university band headed the student procession to the university and automobiles carried the football men. Upon reaching capital square Captain Tandberg was called upon for a speech. He said the team played the best they knew how but were unable to return a clean-cut victory.

"We should have won the game," he said, "and but for that one run of Olinphant's we would have."

In this there was no dispute. The team was set to work this afternoon on a week of hard practice in anticipation of another game of equal importance Saturday—that with the Michigan Aggies, conquerors of the University of Michigan last Saturday. The Aggies' triumph over the Michigan state team, the first in her history, has served to heighten interest in next Saturday's contest, and one of the greatest crowds of the season will be present. The seat sale opened today.

FIVE LIONS ESCAPE IN CITY OF LEIPSI

Citizens Terrorized by Beasts Which Escape From An American Circus.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 20.—Five lions belonging to an American circus company obtained their freedom in the streets of Leipzig this morning, owing to the collision of a street car and their cage while it was on the way to the railway station after the performance. The case was thrown open by the shock and the appearance of the wild animals in the center of the city created a big disturbance. There was a crowd in the street in honor of the celebration of the centennial of the Battle of Leipzig at the theatre of Nathan Ntallins. One of the lions entered the hotel, rushed upstairs and ran along the corridors driving the visitors before it into their rooms. It was some time before policemen arrived and shot the animal. The other four of the lions ran to various parts of the city. No one was attacked.

MILLION DOLLAR DAM ON WISCONSIN RIVER READY

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Oct. 20.—The million dollar dam of the Wisconsin River Power company at Prairie du Sac, is nearly completed, and agents are busy negotiating for the sale of the current to many cities. Magnus Svenson of this city, president of the company, has called the attention to the Madison board of commerce to the advantages the new plant will offer. The development of this waterpower will undoubtedly result in new rates, and competition with existing plants is likely to arise soon.

CLAIMS MURDERER AT MILWAUKEE MAY BE LEEGSON SLAYER

Chicago Chief of Detectives Holds Theory—Identify Body of Strangled Woman.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Milwaukee, Oct. 20.—The identity of the woman who was strangled late last night with her silk scarf and her face and head beaten to a jelly by blows from a piece of gas pipe, supposed to have been wielded by a man giving his name as George Schultz, has been established as that of Mrs. Emily Will, aged 53, a widow who lived in the rear of 25 and Violet streets. Mrs. Will was sister of Post Lieutenant William Mass.

May Be Leegson Slayer.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—When Captain Halpin today learned of the strangling of the woman at Milwaukee last night by a man giving the name of George Schultz, he telegraphed for a description of the murderer. The similarity of the methods of the Milwaukee murderer to those of the slayer of Miss Leegson was what aroused the interest of the local chief of detectives. Miss Leegson was an art student who was strangled by a piece of fish line and her watch was found on the day after the murder by a copper colored negro and thus far no man has been found answering that description.

FIRST TOUCH OF THE WINTER STORMS FELT

Thermometer Drops to Thirty-Two This Afternoon Followed by Snow.

Janesville and the middle west had their first touch of winter today when the thermometer dropped to thirty-two on a slight flurry of snow appeared. Reports from other cities were as follows:

Snow Falls.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 20.—The first snow of the season fell today. It was enough to cover the ground with a white layer which disappeared shortly after sunrise.

The snow was accompanied by a severe drop in temperature which took the thermometers down to 25 degrees above zero.

Ice at Duluth.

Duluth, Oct. 20.—The city hydrant produced a slight ice for the youngsters this morning, the first ice of the season. Weather reports on the Vermillion range indicate low temperature. Snow fell at Torrey, Winton and Tarback. This is the first snow of the season. A wind accompanied the flurry and not over an inch of snow fell.

Cold Grips South.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 20.—Winter appeared in many sections of the middle South today, snowfall being reported from various points as far north as Hopkinsville, Ky., and south as far as Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta. This is the earliest snowfall on record in Nashville.

Frosts in Texas.

Kansas City, Oct. 20.—Freezing temperature, the first of the season, prevailed over Missouri, Kansas and Northern Oklahoma early today and a light frost in Northern Texas. Ice formed all over Western Missouri and snow fell in Eastern Missouri.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 20.—Snow that melted as fast as it touched the earth fell here today for several hours. The temperature was 34 degrees.

Heavy Snow in Ohio.

Findlay, Ohio, Oct. 20.—Findlay awakened this morning with the ground white with snow. Then rain set in and the snow disappeared. It was a record date for snowfall.

DAIRY INSPECTOR EARNS HIS SALARY BY ARRESTS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Neenah, Wis., Oct. 20.—E. L. Aderhold, dairy inspector, in the last six months has caused the arrest of seventy-three persons for unsanitary conditions in cheese factories and creameries. Not a single case has been lost, the defendant having been found guilty in every instance. The total amount of the fines paid has resulted in the payment of about $1,500, which more than equals the salary and traveling expenses of Mr. Aderhold.

AMERICAN NEGRESS BRIDE ZULU PRINCE

Unusual International Match Consummated at Danville, Virginia—Hampton Graduates.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Danville, Va., Oct. 20.—Quite out of the ordinary was the international matrimonial alliance consummated here today, inasmuch as it involved neither an American heiress nor a title of European nobility. The bride was Miss Julia Smith, a young negress living in the town of Almagro, and the bridegroom, Prince Madikane G. Cele, whose father is said to be a high potentate of the Zulus in South Africa.

Prince Cele came to the United States about seven years ago, having heard of the country and its opportunities through a missionary in South Africa. He took his first lesson in English speaking at the Slater School in Minston-Salem, N. C., and while there learned of Hampton Institute, where he went the next year. Recently he finished a six-year course at Hampton, where his bride of today also was a student.

At Hampton Prince Cele mastered the wheelwright and blacksmith trades and gained a knowledge of other practical arts. Now he intends to return with his bride to his native land and together they will endeavor to teach the Zulus to make use of their natural resources. They also will conduct an active campaign in behalf of Christianity. As a missionary the prince's expenses will be paid by Hampton Institute.

CAUSE OF DISASTER IS KEPT A SECRET

Truth is Finally Learned Concerning Accident Which Cost Three Lives in Minnesota Mine.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Nashvauk, Minn., Oct. 20.—When three men were killed and two others probably fatally injured here in the Crosby Mine Wednesday, the exact nature of the disaster was kept secret. Today it was learned that the mine was loading cars under ground and that they placed a charge of dynamite after which they resumed their work. The explosion which followed caused a cave-in of about two hundred feet of earth, which injured who were taken to Hibbing and Joe Delano, Nick Vovetick, Supt. J. A. Barber, Clark A. Wivell. A crew worked for hours before the men were reached.

ENGINEER'S ACTION SAVES MANY LIVES

Investigation of Burlington Wreck at La Crosse Shows Engineer's Heroic Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Oct. 20.—Investigation by the officers of the Burlington wreck at Nelson, a station north of here, shows that Engineer M. H. Dorsey of train No. 57 appeared close by. There was no time to pull clear of the siding and to remain where he was he would have met No. 57 which would have crashed into the passenger coach.

Dorsey quickly reversed his engine, stopped on the main with the engine and baggage cars which had been cleared and took upon his locomotive the shock of the collision. All the injured are reported as improving today.

Conductor Weirick of the passenger train, who was reported as being in a serious condition Saturday night, will recover.

WILSON CERTAIN OF MEASURE'S PASSAGE IN A SHORT TIME

Write Congressman Underwood that Senators Now Realize the Necessity of Action.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Oct. 20.—President Wilson wrote Representative Underwood today expressing the opinion that the currency bill would be turned over to the senate not later than the first week in November and passed within two or three weeks.

"I have had a number of conferences with the members of the senate committee on banking and currency, both democratic and republican, and as the result of these conferences I feel confident that report on the bill may be expected not later than the first week in November."

"Most of the members of the committee with whom I have conferred have shown themselves to be keenly aware of the disadvantage to the country of any needless delay. I believe action of the senate on the bill will follow within two or at the most three weeks after the report is made. I do not believe any attempt will be made to delay its passage by dilatory tactics."

"Senators on both sides realize that nothing is to be gained by keeping the public in suspense and that it is the public desire to have the bill passed promptly. The passage of the bill is assured."

Senators Bristol and Hitchcock were not optimistic for the passage of the bill at the present session. Senator O'Gorman said it might be possible but that it would not be "determined to a certainty." Senator Pomeroy agreed with the president.

Underwood is the candidate of the conservative Democrats; Hobson the candidate of the radicals in the same party. Underwood is supposed to stand the better chance of election.

WILL BEGIN TRIAL OF THOMAS WATSON

Augusta, Ga., Oct. 20.—Important issues are involved in the case of Thomas B. Watson, editor, author, and nominee of the People's party for the presidency of the United States in 1904, who is to be tried at the term of the United States district court which opened here today on a charge of sending obscene matter through the mails. The charge resulted from the publication of articles in two of Watson's magazines denouncing the Roman Catholic church. He was indicted by the federal grand jury Nov. 19, 1912. Watson claims if he were guilty of the charge it would be a violation of the federal laws to send a Bible through the mails. Judge S. G. McLendon, former railroad commissioner and leading counsel for Watson, contends that the case is not under the jurisdiction of the federal government, and that if prosecution is to take place it should be done by the state. Judge McLendon further declares that the case hinges on the freedom of the press and that for the first time in the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Eaton, to recount the result of his analysis of the contents removed from the stomach of Rear Admiral Eaton. He stated that sixteen grains of white arsenic were found in the admiral's stomach.

At the Baton trial today Professor Whitney testified that vital organs of the admiral's body were "poisoned" with arsenic. He found a total of 1.67 grains of poison. Relying to the hypothetical question asked by District Attorney Barker at the suggestion of Judge Aiken, the witness said that the examination would indicate that the poison had been taken in more than one dose. The first dose was probably taken within a few hours of the time that the suffering began.

A hypothetical question was that the patient became ill on Thursday and died Saturday. Indications were that the sick man had received poison on six hours before he died.

He stated that a large amount of poison had been received by the admiral which had been thrown off. The body probably had riden itself of several times the amount of poison that had been retained.

STOMACH ANALYSIS REVEALED ARSENIC

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 20.—Prof. William F. Whitney of the Harvard medical school was called to the stand today in the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, charged with the murder of her husband, Rear Admiral Joseph Eaton, to recount the result of his analysis of the contents removed from the stomach of Rear Admiral Eaton.

At the Baton trial today Professor Whitney testified that vital organs of the admiral's body were "poisoned" with arsenic. He found a total of 1.67 grains of poison. Death List in Mobile and Ohio Wreck Last Night May Be Increased to Thirty-Five.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Mobile, Oct. 20.—Victims of the troop train wreck on the Mobile and Ohio railroad at Ducktunna, Miss., last night, in which twenty United States soldiers were killed and nearly a hundred others badly injured, were conveyed to Mobile by relief trains today.

Seventy-four seriously injured soldiers were taken to the Mobile city hospital while a number of less seriously hurt were taken to the government hospital at Fort Morgan. Physicians, who arrived on relief trains, said they feared at least fifteen among the seriously injured would not survive. Investigation of the cause of the wreck was continued today.

Dead in Wreck.

Meridian, Miss., Oct. 20.—All the victims of the Mobile and Ohio troop train wreck had not been removed early today according to travelers who arrived from here. They said at three this morning that 23 bodies had been removed but they were not certain but that more dead and injured were still in the wreckage. Most of those killed were badly mangled and arms and legs and even heads were strewn about the wreckage.

Conflicting Reports.

Meridian, Miss., Oct. 20.—While the Mobile and Ohio railroad officials say the list of dead is seventeen, telegraphic reports from Ducktunna, received here, place the number of dead at as high as thirty-five.

It was said that up to noon legs, arms, hands and other parts of bodies were being picked up separately and this may lead to the exaggerated reports of the number killed.

Relief From Constipation.

It's Me For Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative. No gripping, no "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," now and then—a bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver and are constipated, you'll find quick, sure and only pleasant results from one or two little Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take one or two every night just to keep right. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.

REV. DAVID BEATON READS RESIGNATION

PASTOR OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH WISHES TO TAKE POSITION IN CALIFORNIA.

LEAVES END OF YEAR

To Take Up Work as Minister at Large and University Extension Lecturer.

Members of the First Congregational church were surprised at the close of the morning service Sunday to have presented to them by their pastor, the Rev. Dr. David Beaton, his resignation from the pastorate of the church to take effect on December 31.

It is his desire to again take up the work of a minister at large and university extension lecturer with headquarters at Los Angeles, California, where he has prepared to begin service on January 1. His resignation as presented is as follows:

"To the Members of the First Congregational Church, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Friends:—Changing social and religious conditions in our community have convinced me for some time that extensive reorganization for more modern and efficient service was required in this church. Advances in education and social culture, both among the young and adult members of our congregation, require corresponding advances in the ministry of the church.

The condition of progress and usefulness, in order to meet the demands of the hour and help solve the problems of this parish, I recently laid before a conference of our church officers some plans for the reorganization, both in the parish at large and the Sunday services of the Sanctuary. The subsequent consideration of those plans made it evident that the reorganization necessary to carry them into effect involved changes of policy and administration, both in financial expenditures and personnel service. During such changes the burden of reorganization falls principally on the minister, and usually this is not an improper event, but in the circumstances in which I find myself it is impossible for me to assume this difficult and protracted task.

For my twelve years have been fitting myself by special studies for expert work in religious education, bible interpretation, and preaching on the urgent modern themes of the family, the church and the experience as a teacher and preacher. I have been able to do this only by giving up the time and energy necessary for the onerous work of the reorganization of this large church and parish.

It came from this ministry at large to your local Congregational service, and its freedom and urgent opportunities still appeal to me.

I, therefore, crave your consideration in my present desire to resignate my ministry among you and to give back into your hands the office you so graciously placed in my keeping some four years ago. In doing so I beg of you to accept from Mrs. Beaton and myself the warmest expression of our regard and gratitude for the many kindnesses we have received from you all, and I assure you of our earnest hope and prayer for your speedy entrance on the open sea of progress as a church and community.

If agreeable to you I desire to close my work here December 31, 1913, as I intend to begin the work of a minister at large and university extension lecturer with headquarters at Los Angeles, California; and I have arranged to begin service there the first of January, 1914.

I shall be pleased to join in calling a mutual council of discussion at the convenience of the church.

Your minister in the Gospel of Jesus Christ,

DAVID BEATON.

It is probable that the resignation of the Rev. Beaton will be considered at an early meeting of the trustees of the church.

Imagination in Religion.

That imagination is the sole creative faculty, the mother of invention, of art, of literature, the secret of efficiency, and the channel of inspiration.

Imagination is the great power, the power by the Rev. Dr. Beaton yesterday morning on the "Religious Uses of the Imagination."

Astronomy is the most exact and mathematical of all the sciences, but it requires more imagination than in any other. Its highest effort is a form of faith. Imagination is more than mere fancy. What are its works? The Parthenon, the Sistine Madonna, the great symphonies, the Brooklyn bridge, the Panama canal. Imagination is the one creative power of the intellect, and all real masterpieces in art, literature, sculpture and architecture are its products.

Half of the Bible is the product of imagination. You say God revealed it; yes; to the creative imagination.

Imagination not only helps us to understand the things we can not see nor prove by means of our senses, and intellect, but it is a powerful aid in practical life. The want of it lies at the source of inefficiency, one of the greatest burdens that the world carries on its back.

It is the secret of the success of James J. Hill and of Pierpont Morgan who could think of business on a continental and international scale. It was the power of Da Vinci, who was not only the painter of the Mona Lisa but the greatest engineer and architect of his time.

"Success in the humblest of tasks requires a measure of imagination. It is needed in the rearing of a family. The parents must have the idea of what they want their children to become and keep that ideal constantly before them. This determines the education given the children, the kind of companions they are permitted to associate with, their moral and spiritual instruction, their pleasures and recreation.

"True sympathy is impossible without imagination. We can not truly sympathize with another, feel his cares and sorrows, unless we can through the imagination put ourselves in his place. The trouble with most of us is that we are so despoiled of imagination and common sense in our thoughts. Perhaps we haven't time. If this is the case we are cheating ourselves of the exercise of the noblest faculty.

Imagination is the supreme spiritual solace. Without it, religion is barren and cold. You may say that such a vision as that of St. John is an idle dream, but I say, Thank God for idle dreams. They hold out to us hope for eternity and impel us to strive for the perfection of the ideal.

He took as his text the fourth verse of the twenty-first chapter of Revelation.

"And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor passed away."

"No one with any poetic sentiment," continued the speaker, "can read such a verse without feeling how different from the ordinary run of this literature. We are struck with the fact that we have met with such sentiments and such thoughts in the prophets of the Old Testament—in Isaiah, in Jeremiah. We feel that they are special revelations, something different from what we find in its other books, forgetting that revelation originally meant and still means, a vision, not necessarily a miraculous interpretation of a vision.

"With the exception of the book of Chronicles, and one or two others, which are almost purely history, the Bible is full of imagination. The burden of its literature is prophetic, poetic and the reason is that this quality of mind that we call the imagination is the most powerful. A person without imagination must to a large extent remain irreligious.

"Now is imagination an aid to faith? It is almost faith itself. Jesus always used the expression 'Have faith.' It implies belief in the absence of proof and was given particularly in the great evangelical movements of the last century. The greatest difficulty of the present day has been to harmonize faith with scientific knowledge, but as a matter of fact imagination or faith is one of the greatest needs of the scientific thinker.

OBITUARY

James Meredith Smith.
James Meredith, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith, died on October 18, the cause of death being paralysis of the throat. The little boy was aged one year, five months, and five days. Funeral services will be held at the home at two o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial will be made in the Emerald Grove cemetery.

Mrs. Mary Cassidy.
Mrs. Mary Cassidy, for many years a resident of Rock county, passed away at 9:15 o'clock this morning at the home of her son, Thomas Cassidy, three miles west of Leyden. She was eighty-seven years of age. Death came as the result of the infirmities of old age.

Mrs. Cassidy leaves one son, Thomas, with whom she resided, and three daughters: Mrs. Mark Hall, Mrs. M. J. Bessert of Evansville, and Mrs. John Ryan of Janesville, and nine grand-children. She was born in Ireland and came to this country when sixteen.

Funeral services will be held at St. Michael's church in the city of Rock, Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, leaving the home at 8:30. Burial will be made in the Prairie cemetery.

William Harvey Parker.
Last funeral services for the late William Harvey Parker were held from the late home, Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. The pall bearers were the Messrs. Theodore Balslev, Arthur Ward, William Hennessey, Monte Sprout, George Parker and George Criger of Whitewater.

Heart to Heart Talks

By CHARLES N. LURIE

THE LONG ARM.

From Russia to America, across thousands of leagues of land and sea, came Mrs. Sonia Sofia, a young widow.

She came not to make a home in this country. She remained among us only a few days. She has gone back to Russia. The young woman came here in obedience to an ancient Hebrew law which says that a woman may not remarry unless the nearest male relative of her deceased husband either marries her or gives her permission to marry another.

The law is very old. Orthodox Hebrew women still consider it binding on their consciences and on their courses of action.

So Mrs. Sofia traveled from a little town in the interior of Russia to Columbus, O., to get from her husband's brother a further release from the ties already partly severed by death.

Curious old custom! Yes, but it illustrates well the tenacity with which she and many of her coreligionists cling to their old orthodox beliefs.

Arriving in New York, Mrs. Sofia said:

"From Russia to Ohio is a long journey. BUT FURTHER THAN THAT EXTENDS THE LAW."

Unknowingly she enunciated a great truth.

"Further than that extends the law!" She meant only her religious law, but is not her saying applicable to other laws?

Take the law of conscience, for example. How far do you think you would have to flee to reach a place where it could not overtake you? The peak of the highest mountain, the least frequented arctic solitude, the greatest depth yet sounded in the sea?

Further than that extends the law!

Do you think a plunge into the whirl of work or pleasure or dissipation will drown out the voice that tells you of your own wrongdoing?

No, for "further than that extends the law!"

More, material laws have long arms too. Every day we hear of men overtaken by evidences of crimes committed in years gone by. Not only murder will out, but so will lesser offenses against the criminal code. A man may flee from the scene of his crime, he may change his name, he may live for years in the atmosphere of respectability, but in many cases the law finds him out.

And if it does not?

Well, the law of conscience is more potent for punishment than any yet embodied in statute by man. It may be repented for a time by a man's mental powers sitting in judgment on his own case, but in the end it is enforced.

Go as far as you like in time or distance from your misdeeds, but—

"Further than that extends the law."

Daily Thought.

Trust men and they will be true to you; treat them greatly and they will show themselves great.—Emerson.

Americans Fond of Cocoa.

The United States consumes more than 26 per cent. of the total production of cocoa, or over 60 tons per annum. Germany consumes almost 50 tons and France 28,044 tons each year.

Great Britain uses over 25 tons, so it may be seen that this is an enormous industry, and one of the most valuable products grown.

Tiny Golf Course.

The smallest golf course in Great Britain is probably that on May island, at the mouth of the Firth of Forth, the sole occupants of which are the keepers of the lighthouse.

The island is a mile long and two and a half furlongs broad.

Believed Fish Had a Language.

In the old Roman days the murres, or sea eels, were supposed to be possessed of a "language" "low and sweet," it is denominated by an ancient writer, "and with an intonation so fascinating that few could resist its influence." The Emperor Augustus, it was contended, was the only mortal who could understand this "language."

Physician's Best Qualification.

The best doctors have brown eyes, and it is acknowledged on all sides that the man who is a good doctor is so not because he is more skillful in knowing what medicines to give or in handling the operating knife, but because of his power of soothing his patients and giving them the impression that they are safe in his hands.

Electric Voting Machine.

An electric voting machine is to be tried in the Austrian chamber of deputies. Each member will have two electric buttons on his desk. On the wall opposite the president's chair an indicator is fixed, consisting of 516 glass tablets. When a vote is recorded they show either a white or a red light, and members can check the accuracy of their votes. Names are shown on the tablets if required.

FLOURING.

Secretary McAdoon now says that the 2 per cent government bonds, morally redeemable at par in virtue of the exceptionally low rate of interest, will be good security for national bank notes even if they sell at 90. This might be true if the United States government were willing to exchange for an unfettered bond issue at its real credit, which is about 3 1/2 per cent, as first-class government bonds go.

Otherwise the $760,000,000 of national bank notes outstanding, with government bonds selling at 90, would be just 10 per cent flat money. If this is the ambition of Mr. McAdoon, Mr. Bryan, Mr. Owen, Mr. Glass and the president, they are on the high road to achieve, and more than achieve their desire.

A combination of repudiation and fiat money for less than a year of office is an administrative record. This word of warning from the Wall Street Journal is significant because it suggests the danger of tinkering with the currency question by a theoretical administration. This is only one of the dangers threatened by the revolutionary banking measure.

The paper goes on to say: "The bill now pending in congress affects the interests and property rights of not merely of seven thousand national banks, with deposits of nearly six thousand millions, but the interests of nearly eighteen thousand state and private banking institutions, with deposits of more than eleven thousand millions."

"Even if the banks were the selfish and unscrupulous institutions which they are sometimes represented to be, it would still be vital to the public interests that any attempt to impair their resources or modify their functions should be conducted with the utmost deliberation and diplomacy. Bank presidents and bank stockholders are not the owners of the bulk of the resources in banks, but only custodians and trustees for their depositors. In safeguarding these depositors, it is the duty of the institutions to maintain adequate cash reserves and to anticipate any unusual demand by strengthening these reserves."

"If the idea should once spread abroad that the banking system would be seriously injured by pending legislation, it would become the duty of prudent bankers to call loans and husband their reserves. If this invoked the most terrible panic in the history of the country, the bankers should be asked by the politicians to shoulder the blame. But the real blame would rest upon those who had shaken the confidence of depositors by unwarranted attacks upon the banking fabric, or even by imprudence in their method of proposing and carrying out reforms which might be in themselves desirable."

The country will adjust itself to tariff changes because only a limited number of people are directly interested, but the currency question affects every man who has a dollar. If the cash law now under discussion becomes operative, and confidence is destroyed, as it will be, the money panic of 1907 will look like a summer breeze compared to a cyclone. Nothing checks a run on a bank so quick as a liberal display of money on the counters. People go away satisfied when they discover that there is plenty of money in sight.

The Vreeland-Aldrich emergency currency bill provided the United States treasury with five hundred million dollars in surplus currency to be used when demanded. This act re-stored confidence, and not a dollar of this new issue has ever been called for.

There are three kinds of capital which contribute to national prosperity, namely: confidence, property and the circulating medium known as money. Of the three, confidence is of the most importance, and when this is weakened property shrinks in value, and money seeks retirement.

Congress, stimulated to action by a theoretical president, is just now engaged in reform efforts, which, if successful, will undermine the structure and result in grave disaster. It is to be hoped that a conservative senate may be able to prevent the catastrophe.

The announcement that Dr. David Beaton, pastor of the First Congregational church, has tendered his resignation to that society to take effect December 31st, will be learned with regret by his many friends, many of whom are not members of his congregation. Dr. Beaton has made for himself a place in the civic life of Janesville and his retirement from active work in the local church and removal from the city will be deplored by many who have learned to know and love him.

There will be some indignant women in this country who will feel personally insulted over the failure of Mrs. Pankhurst to gain admission to American soil, but the people generally, including a large majority of the women, will feel relieved. The English agitator is too much of a disturber to be considered a desirable citizen of any country.

President Wilson is evidently between the devil and the deep sea in seeking the passage of his currency measure. A few days ago he intimated that any democrat who did not vote for the measure was not a democrat and now he has reached the stage where he will even accept republican votes if necessary to pass it.

Despite the fact that football is now supposed to have the stage in fall sports, baseball hangs on in a most remarkable manner and the reports of games played in various parts of the country appear more important than the resume of the college sports.

Congress is likely to be in session for the next four years, if all of the reforms in sight are disposed of. The boys at Washington are tooting the mark very much as they did at Princeton. It takes a pedagogue to enforce discipline.

Unless all signs are misleading, Senator La Follette is grooming for the presidency in 1916. Between voting with the democrats, posing as a progressive, and claiming to be a republican, just where he belongs politically, is a conundrum.

With thirty-four thousand dollars to pay, as over due water rent, the city of Green Bay has discovered that the tax commission plays no favorites. The day of free water is a thing of the past.

If you don't believe taxes are going up, watch the assessment roll. Seventy-two million dollars represents some valuation for Rock county, as compared with ten years ago.

Governor Sulzer is down and out, and it remains to be seen whether or not the state of New York is to be congratulated. Tammany is largely in evidence at the state capital.

A High Compliment. "I've lost faith in Wilson," says Gov. Blease of South Carolina. That is the biggest compliment paid Wilson yet.—Deerfield News.

Sets Bad Example. President Wilson can hardly be blamed for not recognizing the Huerta government, considering that Huerta refuses to recognize certain parts himself.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Laudable Ambition. The fond ambition of a good many men will be to get an income that will enable them to be listed under the new income tax law.—Mineral Point Tribune.

Accustomed to Taste. The claim of the bankers that the new currency bill "smacks of socialism" will scarcely serve to alarm the people. The latter have found good in quite a number of things that smack of socialism.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

Presumptuous. Julian Hawthorne and Doctor Morton, having completed their terms at the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, are now criticizing the meals and the regulations. It will be remembered that the men were not billeted there as a reward for good conduct. If they don't like the place, perhaps they will conduct themselves with such circumspection as to keep out of it in the future.—Evening Wisconsin.

What of Golf? As a nation the American people are fond of sports, but it is doubtful if they get any great good from them. Of course it is interesting to watch a football or baseball game and it is a mental relief, but there is a great need for some sports that are played by the masses, especially of men. A game that would give healthful exercise and enjoyment to the business men would be popular and beneficial.—Whitewater Gazette.

DISCOVERS CURE FOR GREAT BLACK PLAGUE

Prof. Paul Ehrlich, the famous German scientist, recently has discovered a cure for the great black plague. The value of his work cannot be overated, for "the hidden plague," as another scientist has said, "does not strike only those who expose themselves to it; it strikes also, and in greater number, the innocent. It costs the country millions; fills many homes with preventable misery; overcrowds our workhouses, prisons and lunatic asylums with imbeciles and criminals, and if uncontrolled may eventually endanger the very existence of the country."

Success in Localizing Crop.

The little seedless grapes which furnish the so-called dried "currants" exported from Greece in large quantities and produced nowhere else in the world are a remarkable instance of localizing of an important crop in a small district. The annual yield of these "currants" is over 1,200,000,000 pounds of fresh fruit, or about 160,000 tons when dried.

WANT TWO HUNDRED ON BOOSTER TRIP TUESDAY MORNING

Secretary Lane Expects Big Line-up for First Day's Tour if Weather-er Man is Accommodating.

"I am confident there will be thirty cars on the booster run tomorrow," said Secretary Lane of the Commercial Club this afternoon. "We hope there will be fifty cars in line and there ought to be fully two hundred Janesville men on the first day's run. Attention is called to the place of meeting, in Morphy's store, corner of Main and Court streets. The time is eight o'clock in order to give ample time for the arranging of banners and the distribution of hand bills and booster literature.

"Of course we don't intend to go out in the face of a blizzard, but if the weather man is any way accommodating, we will be on the job early tomorrow," said Mr. Lane.

The first day's tour will cover the eastern and northern part of the county and will also include Port Atkinson and Whitewater. The tourists will stop at Edgerton for dinner.

HAS MONEY FOR GIRL WHO AIDED OLD LADY

Minneapolis Man Seeks Augusta Kath Who Enfringed Aged Woman at Clinton.

Because she befriended her when others spurned her and turned her from their doors, Miss Dolly Kettels, an aged woman who recently passed away at Minneapolis, has left her worldly possessions amounting to a small sum of money to a girl whose maiden name was Augusta Kath, who is supposed to reside in or near Janesville. In a letter to the Gazette, John Strimberg of Minneapolis, asks the paper to aid him in locating the young woman for whom he holds the legacy. He states that Miss Kath married a man by the name of Siebert or Slivert, but his efforts to find her by letter have thus far been unavailing. Any communication addressed to Mr. Springer should be sent care of general delivery.

In his letter to the Gazette, Mr. Springer encloses the aged woman's statement bequeathing her all to the girl who was kind to her when she was homeless and friendless. It is as follows: "Please give this little girl all my money after I am dead, for she was good to me and she saved me from starting many times when she was in Clinton in the hotel, when others put me out. She filled my basket with what was left over, for I was a poor old woman. God bless her for her kindness. Her name was known to me as 'Kathness,' but is Augusta Kath. Now I have a little money and all is left to her for her good will. I cannot tell my story, so I have written this. She was a daughter to me. O Lord, if I could tell my mind how this little girl cared for me, you could not help to love her."

HENRY JACOBS IS CALLED BY DEATH

Dies at Home Early Last Evening After Brief Illness.—Was Over 75 Years of Age.

Henry Jacobs, passed away last evening at his home, 521 Prairie avenue, at eighty-three, following a brief illness. He was born in Sweden, near Kirkskon, March 25th, 1839, and came to America with his parents in 1859. They moved at once to Rock Island, Illinois. About this time his father, mother and one sister died of cholera, which disease invaded the Central states during that year. Mr. Jacobs was a graduate minister of the Chicago Theological Seminary. He acted in this capacity at the pulpits of the Congregational church at Wayne, Illinois, and at Sandusky, Ohio. He was married to Miss Cordelia N. Metcalf of Ontario, Illinois, and was the father of eight children, six having died within the past years. He moved to Janesville with his family in 1900 from Clinton, Tennessee and has lived here ever since.

Besides his wife, he leaves to mourn his death, one daughter, Miss Mary C. Jacobs of this city, one son, Alva Jacobs, who is at present in the United States army, unable to be located, and two sisters: Mrs. Anna Jones and Mrs. Mary J. Nelson, both of Barrett, Kansas.

Funeral services will be held from the home Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock, the Rev. David Beaton officiating.

HOLTON OF THE NAVY IS THE NEW SERIAL

Interesting Story of the Freeing of Cuba Stars in Today's Issue.

Lawrence Perry has written a most interesting story of "Holton of the Navy" and his part in freeing Cuba in the troublesome days of Nineteen Eight. It is a war story, pure and simple and should prove most acceptable reading. It is well told and gives an insight into the recent war with Spain not generally known. The first chapter appears in today's issue. The next serial story will be "The Marshal," a most interesting story of the Second Napoleon.

DINING CAR WAITER CHARGED WITH THEFT

Myers Barrett, Seventeen Year Old Colored Boy, to Have Hearing Tomorrow Morning.

Myers Barrett, a seventeen year old colored boy, employed as a waiter on the dining car which comes up from Chicago at night and returns on an early morning train, was placed under arrest in Chicago, Friday, by a detective of the Chicago and Northwestern railway charged with the theft of linen and dishes worth $22 from the lockers of the car. Sheriff Whipple was notified of his arrest and went to Chicago on Saturday to bring him to Janesville for trial after first obtaining a warrant from Judge Maxfield. He returned with his prisoner Saturday evening. Barrett was brought into court this morning, but on the motion of his attorneys, Fisher and Fisher, his hearing was adjourned until ten o'clock tomorrow morning. The father of the prisoner, came from Chicago and engaged the attorneys who are to defend his son.

It is alleged that Barrett, who sleeps on the dining car, put the stolen linen and china into a wooden box and expressed them to a fictitious name at the address of his parents. When the box arrived at the home his mother refused to accept it and was returned to the express office. Barrett called for it there under the fictitious name. A detective was in waiting and at once took him into custody. The stolen property is being kept at the sheriff's office pending settlement of the case.

NEW COOKING CLASS AT EVENING SCHOOL

To Be Started Wednesday Night at High School, and Meeting Once Each Week for the Time Being.

Because of the demand shown for entrance in the night cooking school at the high school during the past week, another class will be started on Wednesday night, October 23rd, by a further notice. The class last week was so over-crowded that it was found necessary to organize another class.

The attendance is steadily increasing, and it is expected that the state continuation schools in the near future. In Fond du Lac there is a prospering attendance, with the school only newly organized.

BREAKDOWN CAUSES MANY HOURS DELAY

Side Frame of Derrick Engine Working on Center Pier Breaks Into Seven Pieces.

Sudden strain caused the side frame of the engine on the derrick working on the center pier to break into seven pieces about eight o'clock this morning with the result that construction at this point will be delayed twelve hours or more. The broken frame will be welded together by the oxygen-acetylene process at a local establishment and it is hoped that repairs will have been completed by this evening. Were it not for the unexpected break, all the sheet piling would have been driven by noon today, excavation begun, and the driving of anchor piling started late tomorrow. Workmen began today to place false-work for the second arch. That underneath the completed arch will not be removed until the second is cast. Excavation for the west bank abutment has reached the water-line, and from this point down the work will be done by the clam-shell dredge, which must be transferred from the other derrick. The 112 anchor piles that are to be driven inside the coffer-dam for the center pier have been received and seven cars of gravel and three of cement are on hand. All the screened gravel used is shipped from Beloit.

PRESENT MEMORIALS AT COURT OPENING

The Late Judge J. W. Sale and A. A. Jackson are Paid Tributes by Members of Bar.

Tributes to the memory of the late Judge J. W. Sale and A. A. Long Lost Auks Discovered. A species of bird hitherto believed to be extinct, the rhinoceros auk, is to be found by thousands on Forrest Island, Alaska, according to an announcement made by Prof. Harold Heath of the zoology department of Stanford university. The auk, he said, is a nocturnal bird about the size of a large pigeon. It burrows as much as 15 feet in the ground where it makes its home.

Food From the Sea. Nearly 5,750,000 crabs were landed in England and Wales last year, according to the annual report on sea fisheries, while over thirty-three million oysters, between six and seven hundred thousand lobsters, and some twenty-six thousand tons of other shell-fish were taken.

SENTENCES PASSED UPON FIVE DRUNKS

Charles Kingsley Gets Ninety Days and Work Immediately—Others Briefer Terms.

Six drunks were arraigned before Judge Maxfield this morning, five of whom received sentences. James Cochran agreed to take the pledge and the case against him was adjourned so as to give him an opportunity to make good on his promise. Charles Kingsley received a sentence of ninety days with no alternative of a fine offered to him. He was given a job at outdoor work within half an hour after he was committed.

Knute Skogan of Brohead had only five dollars on his person so he could not pay the fine of $10 and costs imposed. He has telephoned for the needed funds but if unsuccessful will have to take a term of ten days at hard labor.

James J. Dris received a sentence of $25 and costs or thirty days; Michael Boyle of Milton $20 and costs or twenty days and Charles Nehlock $15 and costs or fifteen days. None of them were able to pay fines out of their own money and will have to take jail terms unless friends come to their assistance.

Excellent Precepts. If you would relish your food, labor for it; if you would enjoy the raiment, pay for it before you wear it; if you would sleep soundly, take a clear conscience to bed with you.

PRESENT MEMORIALS AT COURT OPENING

The Late Judge J. W. Sale and A. A. Jackson are Paid Tributes by Members of Bar.

Tributes to the memory of the late Judge J. W. Sale and A. A. Jackson were paid by the members of the Rock County Bar Association at the formal opening of the circuit court for Rock County in the circuit court room at the court house this afternoon. The opening of the court was announced by Sheriff C. S. Whipple, after which Attorney George Cunningham announced the desire of the Bar Association to present memorials to its recently departed members. Judge George Grimm signified his approval of the motion, which was then presented by George Cunningham and presented the memorial to Judge Sale. That to Attorney Jackson was given by Attorney John M. Whitehead.

WORK

By GEORGE FITCH, Author of "At Good Old Siwash."

WORK is the process of reducing hours to dollars and cents. Some men are so skilled at this process that they can take a common or garden variety of hour and get several hundred dollars out of it. Other men work all their lives, throwing twice or fourteen hours into the hopper each day and getting about twenty cents out of each of them.

This is because some men use their brains in handling the hours, and some use their hands. When an hour is chemically treated with intelligence it yields a very big return. But the man who has to squeeze money out of an hour with his bare hands doesn't need a wheelbarrow to cart away the proceeds every evening.

Work is a hobby with some men, a religion with others, a recreation for still others and a stern necessity for most of us. There are also a great many men to whom work is a brutal torture. Many a bright young man spends a life of toil and adventure and privation and suffering trying to get out of work. He begins by allowing his mother to work for him and ends by doing a large number of disagreeable jobs every day under the personal supervision of a short, stout man in a blue uniform, with a hooked cane over his arm.

Work is the greatest magic in the world. It makes gardens out of deserts and captains of industry out of timid, shrinking immigrants. It also makes useful citizens out of slim, scornful college seniors who come home with their hair on tiptoe and pink handkerchiefs sticking out of their upper coat pockets.

Scientists have also endeavored to combine work with a tramp in order to make the results, but have decided to mix oil and water and accomplish a few other comparatively easy tasks first.

Work is a tonic for ambition, a specific for worry and a great eradicant of sorrow. But it is like other medicines. It is an acquired taste. Some men learn to take work in large doses every day and smack their lips over it; while others take it as if it were quinine and their yells can be heard for blocks, hours before quitting time. The man who likes work is sure to be happy most of the time, but the man who has sharp, shooting pains whenever he is in the vicinity of a job is doomed to trouble and a close acquaintance with the constable and the bill collector.

"TIK-TOK MAN OF OZ."
Oliver Morosco, an ambitious and able producer, having taken L. Frank Baum's latest "Oz" stories in hand and built a production around it, will present this creation for the first time here at the Myers theatre on Saturday, Oct. 25. From all precedent accounts, the "Tik Tok Man of Oz," as the show piece is called, is among the most successfully launched in recent years. Beauty of scenery, senselessness of music and modernity in costume are some of the things both Mr. Morosco and Mr. Baum have had in view when they wrote and built this new medium of public entertainment. Mr. Baum has gone deep into the Oz cult for his latest characters, and some of them are said to be the limit in "fantasticity." The audience is to first glimpse a new array of eccentricities among whom are the Clockwork Man, the Princess Ozma, the Shaggy Man, Queen Ann of Oogaboo, Polychrome, Betsy Bobbin, the girl from Oklahoma, Jack, her pet mule, Private Files, and the strangely accoutered army of Oogaboo on the march for the search of Shaggy's long lost brother, who is held without hope of release in the domain of the Metal Monarch, King Ruggedo. By all the foregoing means, jointly and severally, Mr. Baum hopes once more to demonstrate that his "write hand" in the construction of a true fairy tale for grown-ups has not lost its cunning. The picture effects are said to be of the most magnificent description, and the transformations among the best ever attempted in the later years, when not a little managerial courage is needed, not only in the production of such a show piece, but in keeping it on the road with one hundred or more assistants.

The cast is the result of natural selection; that is to say, no actor or actress was asked to join the "Tik Tok" forces that had not given a good account of himself or herself in several previous ventures of the musical show piece and fairy-story kind. The roster of visitors includes: Morton and Moore, the team of grotesque comedians, Charlotte Greenwood, Sydney Grant, Jolly Castles, Lenora Novasio, Gipsy Dale, Fred Woodward, John Dunsmuir, Mary Mooney, and a beauty chorus of fifty.

EXTRAVAGANCE and plenty cannot long dwell in the same house.

Good pastures make fat sheep.

—Shakespeare.

It is scarcely an exaggeration to say that many matters which agitate the public mind are not worth a thought in comparison with dietary questions to which a thought is seldom given.

PREPARING SHELL FISH.

After the rest from oysters during the warm months, one comes back to them with a new relish when the cool days of fall are here.

Broiled Oysters With Brown Sauce.—Dry and season the oysters as for frying. Have ready a wire broiler and a good clear fire; arrange the oysters on the broiler and cook a minute on each side. Put them on a hot dish, add a tablespoonful of butter, one of lemon juice and a sprinkling of salt and red pepper to each oyster. The brown sauce is usually that which is made from the liquor of the oysters that are cooked on a cake griddle, adding flour and butter for thickening.

A delicious bouillon to serve for company is prepared thus: Chop fine fifty oysters, put them in a double boiler and cook slowly for an hour; add a pint of water, a teaspoonful of celery seed, and strain through two thicknesses of cheese cloth. Reheat, add butter and salt and serve in cups.

Panned Oysters Served on Toast.—Drain and wash the oysters. Have ready a smoking hot spider, throw in the oysters and add a tablespoonful of butter to each two dozen oysters. Shake often, season with salt and pepper and add ten drops of onion juice. When boiling hot serve on squares of toast.

It is always wise to throw away the water in which the oysters are received. A green tinge in an oyster does not denote decomposition necessarily, for often the green food on which they feed gives them that color.

When preparing oysters, put them into a colander and pour a quart or two of cold water from the faucet through them. By handling each one the bits of shell may be discovered and removed.

Oysters, Escalloped.—When preparing escalloped oysters, it is well to remember that more than two layers of oysters in the same dish will not cook well. Butter the dish and add a layer of oysters, then a layer of crumbs, and another layer of oysters. Season well and have the crumbs well buttered. Pour on enough milk to be seen between the oysters and bake until the crumbs are brown on top.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

RESPECTING ONE'S RIGHTS.

THAT there are a great many people in this world deficient in a proper respect for the rights of others is a perfectly well recognized fact.

But that there are also people deficient in a proper respect for their own rights is less generally realized. But I think there are.

And furthermore I think they do a great deal of harm in the world. For you will seldom find an excessively meek person who never attempts to defend his rights without finding about him people whom he has gotten into the habit of encroaching on the rights of others.

Self-sacrifice and self-effacement are without doubt medicinal for the soul, but it is right for any one person to attempt to keep all the soul tonic of the family for himself.

And then again, I do not think it is right to let anyone without reason keep you from being as happy as you can.

A happy life blesses humankind. A happy man or woman is a better thing to find than a five pound note.

He or she is a radiating focus of good-will; and their entrance into a room is as though another candle had been lighted. We need not care whether they could prove the forty-seventh proposition; they do a better thing than that, they practically demonstrate the great Theorem of the Livableness of Life.

If you foolishly yield your right to healthy happiness you are yielding your ability to bless the world in this way.

Among my schoolmates were two girls whose mother had died when they were quite young and who were being brought up by a stepmother.

This stepmother was a very narrow, strict and over-bearing woman. I suppose she meant to do well by those children but her idea of doing well seemed to be to crush out their individuality, cut them off from normal intercourse with other young people and exercise a petty tyranny over all their doings even after they were full grown girls.

The younger of the two girls had one of these over yielding dispositions and was simply crushed by the treatment.

She wore the queer clothes, gave up dancing lessons, stayed at home from parties because her stepmother thought they might give prizes for games—a special bugaboo of hers—and in a hundred little ways allowed the life and fun to be crushed out of her.

The older girl on the other hand simply would not submit. She did not leave home or go to any extremes. She simply pleasantly insisted on being allowed to be and act like other normal girls.

The younger girl, shut off from natural intercourse with other young people as she was by her foolish yielding, grew old without ever being young. She never married. She is a sad, awkward, sad woman, dissatisfied with herself and her life.

The older girl grew into a fine normal woman, married happily—against her stepmother's wishes of course—and today blesses the world by radiating happiness and love of life on all with whom she comes into contact.

Incidentally I ought to mention that the older girl is the stepmother's favorite.

I believe the younger girl was lacking in a proper respect for her own rights and that her weakness has ended disastrously both for herself and those about her.

Please do not think I am discounting the value of meekness and unselfishness. I am not. I reverence unselfishness as the greatest of all virtues. But I think there are times when a defense of one's individuality is a firm stand against overbearing demands, a proper respect for one's rights, will add more to the sum of the world's happiness than self-effacement and yielding.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Standing rib-roast is better than the ribs is "short steak." This is the rolled rib-roast for the reason that the rolled has the ribs cut out and is fastened together. This makes the meat easier to carve, but is not near so fine tasting and it has that long piece of tough meat that most of us leave on our plates. The standing rib-roast is all tender meat. The bone is left on while cooking, so keep in the juices, but if it is taken out before serving it will be easier to carve. The tough pieces on the end may be used for croquettes, or baked meats.

The steaks come from the loin of the animal. The part lying nearest the ribs is "short steak." This is the finest, tenderest cut—porterhouse and club. At the other end of the loin is the sirloin. Between the porterhouse and the sirloin as the tenderloin so fine tasting and it has that long piece of tough meat that most of us leave on our plates. The standing rib-roast is all tender meat. The bone is left on while cooking, so keep in the juices, but if it is taken out before serving it will be easier to carve. The tough pieces on the end may be used for croquettes, or baked meats.

A fine flavored steak comes from the flank. It weighs two or two and a half pounds. One must purchase the entire piece as the butchers will not cut it. It is boneless, has long fibres and if a sharp knife be drawn through the steak it makes it more tender.

The top part of the round is for hamburger steak. The hindquarter also has the hindshank which is the best soup meat.

The forequarter has the ribs, chuck, plate and foreshank.

Ribs have been described in the paragraph on rib-roasts. The chuck of the fifth rib-roast, the chuck steaks, the clod and neck; the plate of the brisket, navel and ribs ends; the foreshank, or shin, of the soup-stocks and stew-meats.

A little study will enable us to remember these different cuts, and if one uses this knowledge in buying they will be amply recompensed in the lessening of their meat bills.

The price of meat, we sorrowfully admit, has soared—probably the better way to say it is—the price of meat is soaring. This is something that we have no control over. We can, each one of us, learn HOW to buy so as to get the greatest returns possible for the amount of money we expend.

In one of the local shops the other day a young woman entered, stepped briskly to the counter and said: "I want two pounds of steak." "Yes," said the salesman, "what kind?" "Oh, something good, not too fat," was the indifferent answer.

In reference to the butcher we will say that someone has to buy the inferior meat, that probably accounts for the meat she got at far from "reduced prices."

The question is: Are you and I, through culpable ignorance, going to be the ones? Ignorance is the cause of misfortune. Wake up!

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married woman with two little children. I do all my housework and have quite a lot of time to spare. We are a little in debt and don't seem to get out and I was wondering if you could tell me of something I could do here at home to earn a little money. There are so many things one could do if they only knew about them and I thought you would be the best one to go for advice. I enjoy reading your letters. You certainly give good advice.

Think over what you know. You can do well. Perhaps you can make cookies unusually well, or bread or cake, or pork and beans, or meat pies—there are always people who are glad to buy homemade cookery at a price that will give you a little profit. Maybe you can sew and make pretty things for babies or neckwear or boudoir caps, etc. These are also in demand. Advertise among your friends in the local newspapers that you are prepared to take orders, and have some samples of your work to show.

Do not make the common mistake, my dear, of thinking you can get clerical work to do at home. There is nothing of the kind offered to women, especially unskilled women. I know of quite a few women who are making money now just by doing things that most of think very ordinary.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—Is it proper for a young lady to go to a dance and go auto riding with an old friend when her steady friend is not there?

(2)—Is there any harm in a young girl going to good dances if her parents do not object?

(3)—Is it proper for a young girl to go out riding twice a week?

(4)—If a young man should a young man who cares for a girl write to her when he is in another city?

(5)—Should a young couple going together quite steady, quarrel very much?

(6)—What will make a person's teeth white? (7)—Should a young man give a girl a diamond ring for Xmas if they are not engaged?

(8)—Is it proper for a girl to accept jewelry of any kind from a young man?

(9)—Should a girl go with many different fellows?

(10)—I see no harm in it. Of course it would be best to tell the "steady friend" all about it, so that others won't have a chance to tell him and give him a wrong impression. (2)—No. (3)—Not if she goes in the proper company. (4)—It depends upon how busy he is. I should think twice a week would be often enough. (5)—They should not quarrel at all if they really care for each other. (6)—Brush them with powdered charcoal twice a week and with a good toothpowder every day. (7)—No. (8)—I see no objection to a girl having a number of men friends if she doesn't allow any "spooning."

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1)—In writing to a young man who is a very dear friend to you, how would you sign your name?

(2)—When you start a letter like "Dear friend," what marks should you use after friend—a comma, period or a dash should not quarrel at all if they really care for each other. (6)—Brush them with powdered charcoal twice a week and with a good toothpowder every day. (7)—No. (8)—I see no objection to a girl having a number of men friends if she doesn't allow any "spooning."

EPISCOPAL CHURCH'S PROPOSED CHANGES

Various Divisions of Church Proposed Which Will Alter Present Bishoprics.

At the general conference of the Episcopalians, both clergy and lay, now in session in New York city, many changes have been proposed, some of which would affect radical changes in the church government.

The proposed canon establishing provinces in the Episcopal church provides:

Subject to the provision of Article VII of the constitution, the diocese and missionary districts of this church shall be and are hereby united into provinces as follows:

The first province shall consist of dioceses within the states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The second province shall consist of the dioceses within the states of New York and New Jersey and the missionary districts of Porto Rico.

The third province shall consist of the dioceses within the states of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the diocese of Washington.

The fourth province shall consist of the dioceses and missionary districts within the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Tennessee and Kentucky.

The fifth province shall consist of the dioceses within the states of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, and Wisconsin.

The sixth province shall consist of the dioceses and missionary districts within the states of Minnesota, Iowa, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming and Idaho.

The seventh province shall consist of the dioceses and missionary districts within the states of Missouri, Arkansas, Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

The eighth province shall consist of the dioceses and missionary districts within the states of Utah, Washington, Oregon, Nevada, California, Arizona and the territories of Alaska, Hawaii and of the missionary district of the Philippine Islands.

Provided, however, that the composition of any province shall be altered in accordance with the provisions of canon 30, section 2, whenever a new diocese or missionary district shall be formed.

PAPE'S DIAPEPSIN WILL DIGEST FOOD WHEN YOUR STOMACH CAN'T—IT'S GREAT

Stops Indigestion, Sourness, Nausea, Gas, Dyspepsia in five minutes—Fine for Stomach.

If you feel bloated after eating, and you believe it is the food which fills you; if what little you eat lies like a lump of lead on your stomach; if there is difficulty in breathing after eating, eructations of sour, undigested food and acid, heartburn, brash or a belching of gas, you need Pape's Diapsin to stop food fermentation and indigestion.

It neutralizes excessive acid, stomach poison, absorbs that misery-making gas and stops fermentation which sours your entire meal and causes dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Bilioussness, Constipation, Griping, etc. Your real and only trouble is that which you eat does not digest, but quickly ferments and sours, producing almost any unhealthy condition.

A case of Pape's Diapsin will cost fifty cents at any pharmacy here, and will convince any stomach sufferer in five minutes that Fermentation and Sour Stomach is causing the misery of indigestion.

No matter if you call your trouble Catarrh of the Stomach, Nervousness or Gastritis, or by any other name—always remember that relief is waiting at any drug store the moment you decide to begin its use.

Pape's Diapsin will regulate any out-of-order Stomach within five minutes, and digest promptly, without any fuss or discomfort, all of any kind of food you eat.

If Your Competitor Gains Ground On You

IF CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

Children love this "fruit laxative," and nothing else cleanses the tender stomach, liver and bowels so nicely.

A child simply will not stop playing to empty the bowels, and the result is, they become tightly clogged with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour, then your little one becomes cross, half-sick, feverish, don't eat sleep or act naturally, breath is bad, system full of cold, has sore throat, stomach-ache or diarrhoea. Listen, Mother! See if tongue is coated, then give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated waste, sour bile and undigested food passes out of the system, and you have a well, playful child again.

Millions of mothers give "California Syrup of Figs" because it is perfectly harmless; children love it, and it never fails to act on the stomach, liver and bowels.

Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. Get the genuine, made by "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.

From Yuba Dam to Yonkers the man of backbone conquers, where spineless critics fail; all obstacles overcome, he goes along a-lumming, and gathers fame and kale. No ghosts of failure haunt him, no grisly bogies daunt him or make his spirits low; you'll find him BACKBONE scratching gravel where ever you may travel from Butte to Broken Bow.

Winning in Waterloo you'll see this cheerful rooster, this model to all men; undaunted by reverses he wastes no time in curses, but digs right in again. His face is always shining, though others be repining; you cannot keep him down, his trail is always smoking while cheaper men are croaking about the old dead town. From Humboldt to Hoboken he leaves his sign and token in buildings high and grand; in factories that flourish, in industries that nourish, in anemic land. He brings the work to toilers and fills with bread and broilers their trusty dinner plates; he keeps the ripsaw ripping, the big triphammer tripping, the workman driving nails. All honors to his noblets! We drink to him in goblets of grapejuice rich and red—the man of spine and gizzard who hustles like a blizzard and simply won't be dead!

Getting Shallow.

Little Willie was taking his first trip abroad. About the third day out they passed a freighter. She was not carrying any cargo and about three feet of the bright red below her waterline was visible. Willie gazed a minute and then exclaimed: "Oh, papa, look how the ocean has gone down!"

INDIGESTION OVERCOME

Overcome by Simple Remedy.

Hurried and careless habits of eating, irregular meals and foods that do not harmonize, tend to weaken the digestive organs and result in different forms of stomach trouble.

If you are one of the unfortunate who have drifted into this condition, eat simple foods only, slowly, regularly and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

Mrs. H. J. Smith, Thomasville, Ga., says: "I suffered from a stomach trouble, was tired, worn out and nervous. A friend advised me to take Vinol. My stomach trouble soon disappeared and now I eat heartily and have a perfect digestion and I wish every tired, weak woman could have Vinol, for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good."

The recovery of Mrs. Smith was due to the combined action of the medicinal elements of the cod's livers—aided by the blood making and strength creating properties of iron, which are contained in Vinol. We will return the purchase money every time Vinol fails to benefit. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

P. S. Our Saxo Salve stops itching and begins healing at once.

What She Remembered.

Where There's A Will

By Mary Roberts Rinehart

Illustrated by Edgar Bert Smith

There was no one left but Miss Patty. As she started out past him with a crimson spot in each cheek Mr. Pierce put his hand on her arm. She hesitated, and he closed the door on Doctor Barnes and put his back against it. I had just time to slip back into the pantry and shut myself in.

For a minute there wasn't a sound. Then—"I told you I should come," Miss Patty said, in her haughtiest manner. "You need not trouble to be disagreeable."

"Disagreeable!" he repeated. "I am abject!"

"I don't understand," she said. "But you needn't explain. It really does not matter."

"It matters to me. I had to do this tonight. I promised you I would make good, and if I had let this pass—Don't you see, I couldn't let it go."

"You can let me go, now."

"Not until I have justified myself to you."

"I am not interested."

I heard him take a step or two toward her.

"I don't quite believe that," he said in a low tone. "You were interested in what I said here this afternoon."

"I didn't hear it."

"None of it?"

"Not—not at all."

"I spoke, you remember, about your sister, and about Dick—" he paused. I could imagine her staring at him in her wide-eyed way.

"You never mentioned them!" she said scornfully and stopped. He laughed, a low laugh, boyish and full of triumph.

"Ah!" he said. "So you did hear! I'm going to say it again, anyhow. I love you, Patty. I'm—I'm mad for you. I've loved you hopelessly for so long that tonight, when there's a ray of hope, I'm—I'm hardly sane. I—"

"Please!" she said.

"I love you so much that I waken at night just to say your name, over and over, and when dawn comes through the windows—" put her hands on his shoulders. "And if you won't," she said, "I'll offer myself instead!"

His arms went around her like a flash at that, and he kissed her.

Then, without releasing her, he raised his head, with such a look of victory in his face that I still see it sometimes in my sleep, and his eye caught mine through the crack.

But if I'd looked to see him drop her I was mistaken. He drew her up and kissed her again, but this time on the forehead. And when he'd let her go and she had dropped into a chair and hid her shining face against the back, as if she was ashamed, which she might well be, he stood laughing over her bent head at me.

"Come out, Minnie!" he called. "Come out and hear the good news!"

"Hear!" I said, "I've seen all the news I want."

"Gracious!" Miss Patty said, and buried her head again. But he had reached the shameless stage; a man who is really in love always seems to get to that point sooner or later. He stooped and kissed the back of her neck, and if his hand shook when he pushed in one of her shell hairpins it was excitement and not fright.

"I hardly realize it, Minnie," he said. "I don't deserve her for a minute."

"Certainly not," I said.

"He does," Miss Patty's voice smothered. Then she got up and came over to me.

"There is going to be an awful fuss, Minnie," she said. "Think of Aunt Honoria—and Oskar!"

"Let them fuss!" I said grandly. "If the worst comes, you can spend your honeymoon in the shelter-house. I'm so used to carrying meals there now that it's second nature."

And at that they both made for me, and as Mr. Pierce kissed me Doctor Barnes opened the door. He stood for a moment, looking queer and wild, and then he slammed the door and we heard him stamping down the steps.

Mr. Pierce had to bring him back.

Well, that's all there is to it. The place filled up and stayed filled, but not under Mr. Pierce. Mr. Jennings said ability of his kind was wasted there, once the place was running, and set him to building a railroad somewhere or other, with him and Miss Patty living in a private car, and he carrying a portable telephone with him so he can talk to her every hour or so. Mr. Dick and his wife are running the sanatorium, or think they are. Doctor Barnes is the whole place, really. Mr. Jennings was so glad to have Miss Patty give up the prince and send him back home, after he'd been a week in the hotel at Finleyville looking as if his face would collapse if you stuck a pin in it—Mr. Jennings was so happy, not to mention having worked off his gout at the wood-pile, that he forgave the Dickens without any trouble, and even went out and had a meal with them in the shelter-house before they moved in, with Mr. Dick making the coffee.

I miss the spring, as I said at the beginning. It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks, but with Miss Patty happy, and with Doctor Barnes around—

Thoburn came out the afternoon before he left, just after the rest hour, and showed me how much too loose his waistcoat had become.

"I've lost, Minnie," he confessed. "Lost fifteen pounds and the dream of my life. But I've found something, too."

"What?"

"My waist line!" he said, and threw his chest out.

"You look fifteen years younger," I said, and at that he came over to me and took my hand.

"Minnie," he said, "maybe you and I haven't always agreed, but I always liked you, Minnie—always."

"Thanks," I said, taking my hand away.

"You've got all kinds of spirit," he said. "You've saved the place, all right. And if you—if you tire of this, and want another home, I've got one, twelve rooms, center hall, tiled baths, cabinet mantels—I'd be good to you, Minnie. The right woman could do anything with me."

When I grasped what he meant, I was staggered.

"I'm sorry," I explained, as gently as I could. "I'm—I'm going to marry Doctor Barnes one of these days."

He stared at me. Then he laughed a little and went toward the door.

"Barnes!" he said, turning. "Another redhead, by gad! Well, I'll tell you this, young woman, you're red, but he's redder. Your days for running things to suit yourself are over."

"I'm glad of it," I retorted. "I want to be managed myself for a change. Somebody," I said, "who won't be always thinking how he feels, unless it's how he feels toward me."

"Pah! He'll bully you."

"It's human nature to like to be bullied," I quoted. "And I guess I'm not afraid. He's healthy and a healthy man's never a crank."

"A case of yours for health, eh?" he said, and held out his hand.

HOLTON OF THE NAVY

A Story of the Freeing of Cuba

CHAPTER I.

Hope and Disappointment.

Lieutenant Thomas Holton, commander of the Scorpion, made as though to place the dispatch in his pocket, then, taking pity upon his "second," who was all eyes, he turned the paper over to his junior lieutenant, known throughout the flotilla as "Bobby" Frost.

"You will leave Newport News at ten o'clock tonight with the destroyer Scorpion and proceed south to the parent ship of the First Torpedo Boat Flotilla off Key West," prepared for action.

This order was warmly welcomed by Holton and by his second in command of the grim, lead-colored Scorpion.

"It looks like business, doesn't it?" observed Frost, with tentative infection in his voice.

"It does, sure," chuckled Holton. "I'm glad we had those baffleplates fixed in the boiler. I suppose we might as well have the war-heads fixed on the torpedoes, too. The orders say 'prepared for action.' Attend to it, will you, Frost?"

"Aye, aye, sir," and Frost hurried along the grimy, oily deck to the after companionway.

The somewhat informal nature of the dialogue between the two will be forgiven by the fastidious when it is pointed out that for a month the Scorpion had been lying at Newport News on detached duty of a confidential nature under direct orders from Washington, and that Holton's sole companion aboard ship in that time had been his young second. But the period of loneliness was evidently to end in a burst of glory and Lieutenant Holton was truly thankful.

In the preceding month the mighty battle-ship Maine had wallowed down into the slimy ooze of Havana Harbor, a great hole torn in her forward compartments. In her lay one of Holton's best friends, a shipmate of pleasant days following graduation at the Naval Academy. The cry, "Remember the Maine," was sounding from Maine itself to California. The entire country was on the qui vive. Osgood, the hero of many an American football gridiron, had, as a Cuban volunteer, given up his life at the side of a machine gun; Frederick Funston had served valiantly against the tyrants of Castile and Aragon, and other Americans had given evidence that the fighting spirit was by no means dormant in the heart of a nation of "pigs and tradesmen."

With the situation thus there was little cause for wonder at Lieutenant Holton's emotions of mental exaltation. Whatever the future might hold for him, at least this seemed certain: there would be action, and that is something for which your true gentleman of the service is ever on the watch.

Something of the mood of the two young officers was communicated to the crew. There were broad grins on all the men's faces as they hurried about the performance of the various tasks, and many of them did not forbear to turn inquiring faces toward their officers whenever occasion offered—which expressions, naturally their officers "failed" to see.

At sunset everything was in readiness, and with a sigh of relief Holton stretched himself on the narrow settee running along the mess-room and lovingly filled his pipe. Frost did likewise and then looked over at his superior.

"By George!" he cried, "think of having the opportunity of putting into practice all the things we've learned!"

"It won't be bad fun at all," replied Holton.

Frost was about to utter another thought when the doorway was darkened by the figure of a messenger.

"A telegram for Lieutenant Holton," he said, saluting.

Holton took it hastily and ran over the contents. His face clouded and he read it again. A good strong word was trembling on his lips, and he was about to crumple the dispatch in his hand when his eye fell on the messenger standing at attention.

"Oh, thank you," he said; "there is no answer."

As the messenger departed Holton handed the telegram to his second without a word.

"You will proceed at once to Washington and report to me at the earliest possible moment. Lieutenant Frost will assume command of Scorpion in your absence. ROOSEVELT."

As Frost read the message aloud his voice quivered with excitement. "What does that mean?" he exclaimed.

"Hanged if I know," growled Holton. "Isn't that just my luck! I've been working on this old pot trying to get her into shape and hoping and praying for a chance to make good, and then when there appears to be something doing, why I get skinned this way."

Frost knew exactly how the commander felt, and his natural exultation at being placed in command of the destroyer was quite swallowed up in his sympathy for a man who was his good friend as well as his superior officer.

Holton sat for a while blowing blue clouds of smoke to the ceiling, outwardly calm, but inwardly seething. He went over every act in the past month or so, but could think of nothing he had done that would warrant his recall in disgrace.

"Well, Bobby," he said at length, "you're a real live captain now. And I congratulate you."

"I feel like a man who is going to put on a pair of boots that are too big for him," remarked Frost.

"Oh, nonsense!" smiled Holton. "You're in every way qualified. I'll vouch for you, Bobby."

Frost smiled.

"Thanks," he said; "I'd rather have that from you than from almost any one I know."

"How've ever been before me before?"

"No, your honor. O've seen but wan face that looked like yours, an' that was the picture of an Oirish king."

"Discharged!" announced his honor.

When Mr. Abbott called on a young woman, one evening, he was being entertained by her young brother, Andrew, until she made her appearance.

"If you don't give me a quarter," said little Andrew, "I'm going to tell about you kissing my sister."

"But I hadn't thought of kissing your sister," protested Mr. Abbott.

"You ain't," said Andrew, plainly puzzled. "Then what did she pay me to say that to you for?"

Mr. Justice Darling has defined a sheriff as something which is halfway between an oyster and a lord mayor. But Thackeray anticipated.

the judge in attributing human intelligence to oysters. "I was walking with him one evening from the club," writes Edmund Yates, "and, passing a fish shop in New street, he noticed two different tubs of oysters, one marked 'Is a dozen,' the other 'Is 3d. a dozen.' 'How they must hate each other!' said Thackeray, pointing them out."

Printer's Slight Error.

An organist had drawn up the order of a Sunday service, and it was in type ready for printing when the death of an important personage made a change necessary. The organist telephoned to the printer and instructed him to change the postlude to "Funeral March by Chopin." This is what he found at the end of the list when he arrived at the church. "A few remarks by Chopin."

PUBLIC NOTICE.

Persons Answering Fraudulent Advertisements Asked to Notify Gazette.

The Gazette is desirous of keeping out of its columns, fraudulent advertising and asks the assistance of its patrons to that end.

There are any number of concerns in the country who make a living through a nicely worded advertisement, offering golden opportunities, and these unscrupulous people find fertile ground for work among the masses.

Many orders are received in the Gazette mail for advertising which are returned as objectionable and where there is a question as to the qualifications the advertisement is omitted. All newspapers have this experience.

But even with the utmost care there will be an occasional advertisement which will pass the scrutiny of the business department of the paper, and find its way into the columns.

The Gazette will deem it a favor if you will report to the office any trouble which may have been experienced through the answering of such an advertisement.
